

Biography

Joe Marburger serves as Chief Financial Officer for Circular Solutions, where he leads financial strategy, organizational growth, and operational oversight for one of the recycling industry's strategic companies. With a background in finance, sustainability, and organizational leadership, Joe brings a unique ability to connect fiscal responsibility with environmental impact. He has been instrumental in building scalable systems that support Circular Solutions' work in recycling verification and supply chain transparency, ensuring measurable outcomes for clients across the sports, corporate, and entertainment sectors. Joe's expertise in governance and financial stewardship positions him as a strong candidate for the Georgia Recycling Coalition Board of Directors.

Interest and Qualifications Statement

As Chief Financial Officer of Circular Solutions, I bring experience of financial leadership and governance experience, coupled with a deep commitment to advancing recycling and sustainability across industries. In my role, I have overseen budgets that fund innovation, built transparent reporting systems using secure data-storage, AI, and blockchain technology, and collaborated with businesses, sport venues, and organizations to implement verified recycling solutions with measurable outcomes.

This work has given me insight into both the financial, operational, and communication challenges of recycling, as well as the opportunities to strengthen accountability, education, and engagement. I believe collaboration and credible reporting based on immutable data and transparency, are critical to building trust and confidence in recycling, and I am eager to contribute these skills and experiences to the Georgia Recycling Coalition as a member of its Board of Directors.
